Section I: Administration

1. The Tulane University Law School Sports Law Society organizes the International Baseball Arbitration Competition. These rules reference the International Baseball Arbitration Competition Committee (“Committee”), which is a component organization of the Sports Law Society. The Committee directly administers the Competition by coordinating the joint efforts of student participants, guest arbitrators, and the Competition’s staff.
2. The Committee will consider the submission of exhibits to constitute each team members’ attestation that the entire team has complied with all provisions of these rules.

Section II: Competition Overview

The International Baseball Arbitration Competition is a simulated salary arbitration Competition modeled closely on the procedures used by Major League Baseball (“MLB”) and the Major League Baseball Players Association (“MLBPA”). Like most law school moot court Competitions, the International Baseball Arbitration Competition's main goal is to provide participants with the opportunity to sharpen their oral and written advocacy skills. The Competition, however, is unique in that it allows law students to sharpen these skills within the specialized context of MLB salary arbitration proceedings.

Section III: Recommended Reading

The Committee highly recommends all student competitors to read “A Most Interesting Part of Baseball’s Monetary Structure – Salary Arbitration in its Thirty-Fifth Year” by Ed Edmonds. The citation is: 20 Marq. Sports L. Rev. 1 (2009). After reading the article, students will have a better understanding of MLB salary arbitration, and be better prepared for this Competition’s cases. In addition, please review the 2022-2026 Major League Baseball Basic Agreement (“CBA”) for current arbitration rules.

Section IV: Teams

1. Each team entering the Competition must submit a registration form and the applicable entry fee. A team will not be registered until the Committee receives both. Registration will close once teams from sixty different schools are registered or until the final registration deadline passes, whichever is earlier.

2. Entry Fee – Traditional Competition

- a. The early entry fee for teams with two members is $1,050.
- b. The early entry fee for teams with three members is $1,150.
- c. The late entry fee for teams with two members is $1,100.
- d. The late entry fee for teams with three members is $1,200.

3. Entry Fee – Written-Only Competition

- a. Competitors may enter the competition as an individual or as part of a two-person or three-person team.
- b. The entry fee for teams is $400.

4. A school may indicate its desire to send three teams to the Competition.

5. Each team must consist of two or three law students attending the same American Bar Association (“ABA”) approved law school. Only individuals pursuing a J.D. or L.L.M. degree are eligible to participate in the primary bracket.

6. Schools from non-J.D Graduate programs or other undergraduate programs are able to participate in a separate bracket. Each team must consist of two or three students attending the same institution.

7. Schools that have a qualifying internal Competition may register a team without specifying the team member names in the registration form. In that case, the registration form must include the contact information of the person in charge of the school’s internal qualifying Competition.

8. After a registration form and entry fee have been submitted, a team must obtain approval from the Committee to substitute a team member.

Section V: Venue Rules

By participating in the Competition, team members agree to refrain from disturbing any furniture, equipment (including projectors), or Competition materials in the Lavin-Bernick Center, A. B. Freeman School of Business, or Weinmann Hall. Any issues regarding room assignments, time changes, or the specific placement of arbitrators shall be left to the behest of the Committee.

Section VI: Competition Mechanics

1. The Committee will randomly divide the pool of 60 teams into four groups of 15.
  - a. If there is an irregular number of teams for any reason, then the Committee retains the power to format the Competition in the best interest of the rest of the participating teams.
2. The Committee will create three different salary arbitration cases. Each case will include the Player's filing number and the Club's filing number. The Committee will then assign teams to a side—Player or Club—for two cases, and to both sides for one case. Teams will be required to prepare oral presentations and exhibit books for each of the four assignments, as well as two briefs (one Player brief and one Club brief for the case that has been assigned as both sides).
  - a. All teams in a group will have the same assignments.
  - b. The players used in this Competition are Major League Baseball players eligible for salary arbitration in this year's round of arbitration. Teams must ignore anything occurring after the cases are released.
  - c. Each case's filing numbers are projections of the Committee in an attempt to create the most realistic hearings possible.
3. The Committee will post cases to the Competition's website on Dec, 29, 2025. Cases will be distributed to participating teams through email by December 22, 2025.
4. Teams will submit two briefs total. The Committee will indicate one case for which Teams will prepare arguments for both the Player and the Club side.

5. Teams will submit four exhibits in total. The Committee will assign either the Player or Club side for two of the cases. The other two assignments are the Player and Club side for the case used for the brief. For each assignment, teams will submit an exhibit book (outlining and supporting oral arguments) and prepare an oral argument.

6. Teams will be ranked within their group based on brief and exhibit quality. This ranking will be confidential. The hearing matchups will be determined based on ranking within the groups.

7. The Committee will email exhibits to opposing teams in advance of hearings (i.e. the “exchange”).

8. Three Preliminary Rounds (Thursday):

- a. Each team will be scheduled for three separate hearings.
- b. Throughout the three preliminary rounds, teams within Group A will argue against teams within Group C, and vice-versa. Likewise, teams within Group B will argue against teams within Group D, and vice-versa; however, as noted above, if there are an irregular number of teams for any reason, then the Committee retains the power to format the Competition in the best interest of the rest of the participating teams. All matchups will be emailed to teams following the exhibit submission date in order to facilitate the exhibit exchange.
- c. In each hearing, an arbitrator will evaluate the exhibits and oral arguments based on a provided rubric. The arbitrator may provide oral feedback at the conclusion of the round, time permitting.
- d. Teams may not request access to their numerical score for any round.

9. After the preliminary rounds, the top two teams with the highest composite score in each sub-group will advance to the quarterfinals. In the case of a tie, a team’s margin of victory will determine the team that advances to the playoff rounds. A team’s margin of victory will be calculated by subtracting the opposing team’s point total from the winning team’s point total.

10. Playoff Rounds (Friday):

- a. Quarterfinals: The highest and lowest scoring teams will argue against one another, and so on, in a tournament-style bracket format. The teams will reargue one of the three cases.
- b. Semifinals: The winners of the quarterfinal matchups will advance to the semifinals. They will be notified of the player and side they will argue for this round upon completion of the quarterfinal round. Teams must be prepared to argue either side of the case for which they have prepared both sides.
- c. Finals: The winner of each semifinal matchup will advance to the finals. The teams will be notified of the player and side they will argue upon completion of the semifinal round. Again, teams must be prepared to argue either side of the case for which they have prepared both sides.

- d. In the event that a team forfeits a round due to an unforeseeable occurrence, the team's scheduled opponent will be declared the winner of that round and may be required to argue their case before the arbitrator for scoring purposes.
