

Cost of Attendance: Summer 2024 Abroad Sessions (Page 1 of 2)

Below are budgets for educational loan purposes. A student may apply for an educational loan in an amount equaling the budgeted Cost of Attendance (a living expense allowance and the tuition cost) for the sessions attended plus estimated airfare (or the higher actual documented airfare).

If the student is attending classes in more than one location in Europe, the Cost of Attendance figures for each location may NOT be added together. Tuition for a second program should be added to that of the first program as follows: $2,295 for an additional 2-week program. Also, round-trip airfares may not be added together: the highest airfare should be used, and a flat allowance of $500 (or a higher documented cost) may be added for transportation between program locations. Students seeking loan(s) for summer must complete the Summer Addendum and return it to Law Financial Aid. They will likely have to use a credit-based Federal Direct Graduate Plus loan, so may want to log in to studentaid.gov and apply for it now to see if the credit criteria is met. It doesn't matter how much is applied for at this time since the goal is simply to see if the credit check is passed. The credit check is good for 180 days.
